Farm Bureau Notes

R. D. BAILEY
County Agricultural Agent

Fireside Farming.

"He who foresees, conquers."
This very expressive heading, formulated long ago by a great thinker, is no more true in war or finance than in farming.

In fact, in farming, it is true to a deadly degree.

Those who practice it, succeed.

Those who ignore it, fail.

Many a man, while reading this article, would do well, to pause, look long and earnestly at the words: "He who foresees, conquers;" and, having looked, ask himself if he habitually practices foresight; or, if he just works and stumbles along.

Whatever successful farming has required in the past, let's forget that, and honestly meet what successful farming, and satisfaction with farm life require now, right now, and are going to require in 1922.

The time has entirely passed in which the main qualifications for farming were a strong back and unused head.

Now is the time when, to succeed, a man must make his head save his heels; and, the man who does it the best will succeed the best.

Running the risk of being laughed to scorn, I shall say that successful farming has become an intellectual occupation.

In the past we have worked too much and thought too little.

There is no use crying over that.

The clean, decent thing to do is to quit that style of farming, and to use our heads more.

I have almost worshipful respect for things pertaining to agriculture, and for life on the farm; yet, I often feel that the famous painting "The Man With the Hoe," all too faithfully portrays the farmer's feeling towards his life work.

Did you ever see that picture?

Don't you remember that it plainly shows that the laborer lived in the physical, the muscular, the appetite part of his being, and little in the mental; that he worked with his muscles and not with his mind?

A new day is dawning; a day in which some farmers are beginning to think, to plan, to demand, to organize, notably in the case of the State Farm Bureaus of the many states, and the National Farm Bureau.

The farmer who works hardest, with but little plan or system or head work, seldom gets satisfaction out of his work.

Every county has its farmers who do everything by main strength and awkwardness, and never make a satisfactory showing. They look bedraggled, so do their wives. So do their children. So do their premises. So do their teams, harnesses and tools. Something always happens to keep them from plucking the fruits of victory. According to their story bad luck always attends them.

They do not do enough fireside farming.

It is a rule of nature that he who blunders must suffer.

In a visit to the Soo, several years ago, I saw a few keen, neatly dressed men, smoking cigars and sauntering over the area where the third lock was afterwards so successfully built.

I could have thrown a fit about the soft snap of government employees who squander money furnished by downtrodden taxpayers.

I did not throw the fit; for, I knew that these men were getting the data necessary, their bearings, the lay of the land, were "getting a good ready" before they started the task of building the third lock.

On a later visit to the same place, I saw that, quietly, on time, as by magic, from a mysterious somewhere, thousands of workmen appeared, and that there were places for them to board, and tools for them to work with; that steamdrills and steam shovels appeared, and that there was coal at the right spot to run them with; that tracklayers, trains and train crews appeared just in time to haul away to just the right spot that fearful mass of blasted rock; that the forest of timbers for forms, the trainloads of cement, trainloads of crushed stone, trainloads of reinforcing iron, all appeared on time, without confusion, without being in the way, without being unnecessarily handled over.

That gigantic work, next to the Panama Canal, the greatest engineering feat then in progress, went forward with no more confusion than some make in building a two-story house.

Those men whom I saw sauntering around had done some fireside planning.

A certain farmer came into the woods of Otsego County with only bare hands. He cleared up a farm; always lived in a better house than his neighbors; always had a better barn than his neighbors; his rigs, summer or winter, were neater and in higher class order than his neighbors.

There was a clean cut appearance about the loads of logs, wood or potatoes he drew past my house.

There was a clean-cut appearance about the man as he rode on the loads.

He always had ready money. He always had good things more than his neighbors.

While others punished themselves and teams toiling to town with loads in fearful storms, he sat by the fireside and read and planned—fortifying his mind with the experience of others, and thinking out clever plans for the next farm season.

These plans were carried out with a thoroughness and a success that filled his neighbors with a jealous rage.

He did fireside farming.

While others were frantically running around in the spring after grass seed, he always had his, bought at the lowest price. He always had logs ready to saw when a portable mill came in. He always had things to sell when others had to buy. He always had money to buy with when others had to sell. He sold his potatoes cleverly. He finally sold his

For the Childs Health

WILL SERVE MILK TO UNDER-NOURISHED SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Nursing Committee Ask Financial Aid of Citizens.

Is your child of normal weight?

Very few parents give this thought any consideration. As long as your child seems healthy it is only natural that you give the question of weight no further thought. An under nourished body results in an under nourished brain. In the past three weeks the children in the Grayling public schools from kindergarten thru the 6th grade have been weighed and measured. As a result, we find that out of 319 children, there are 74 who are 10% or more under weight. There is no question but that in the under weight child a more nutritious diet would be beneficial.

At a regular meeting of the Nursing Committee of the local chapter American Red Cross it was unanimously decided that we begin a campaign whereby the under weight child may be benefited in the rural districts as well as in the villages. In the rural schools, it was suggested, that where noon lunches are carried hot cocoa or chocolate be served.

In the Grayling and Frederic schools the plan is to feed the ten per cent or more under weight children, milk and graham wafers twice a day at recess, providing they do not get a definite amount of milk each day at home.

To make this possible it is necessary to start a milk fund, whereby milk can be purchased. A number of people have expressed their willingness to contribute to this fund. It will cost approximately $1.25 per child per month. If you feel that you would like to be responsible for one or more children for a month, please fill out coupon found in this issue and send to Mrs. L. J. Kraus, chairman of Nursing Committee, American Red Cross Grayling or Mrs. James Tobin, Frederic.

MILK PLEDGE

I hereby agree to contribute $..... each month toward the fund to provide milk to the under nourished children of the ..... school.

Address.....

Isabelle Larson. At the next meeting there will be a number of appointments made and committees selected. This new organization will meet in the G. A. R. hall on the second and fourth Friday of each month. The order now boasts of twenty-five members, but expect to have many more by the time of the next meeting. Eligibility of membership in the Women's Auxiliary is limited to mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of those who died in service, or mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of members of the American Legion. Each member will try to get all the new members possible before the next regular meeting, on Friday, January 13.

The annual Masquerade party, the festive affair that is given by Post 108 American Legion during the winter season, will take place this year on January 12 at the School Gymnasium. The same costumer that came to Grayling last year has been secured again and will be here with a fine line of costumes. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

BIG CROWD SEES SNAPPY GAMES

GRAYLING INDEPENDENTS LOSES IMPORTANT GAME TO SAGINAW TRIANGLES.

Grayling Juniors Win From Snappy Frederic Juniors.

Grayling Independents playing under their usual form of basket ball lost to the Saginaw Triangles last Friday night by a score of 25-12. The score however does not compare the strength of the two teams.

The game started out with a bang with Grayling drawing the first blood. The first half was a real battle with both teams on an equal. Saginaw, however, had a better eye for long shots, with Grayling's hard luck for short shots. Time and again our team would get open shots with the ball rolling around the rim of the basket and fall off.

The second half spelled defeat for Grayling with the defense of our team falling below par and Saginaw taking the advantage, scored at will.

The team is making no alibis, we were beaten by the better team. A return game is pending and with our usual line-up will give the fans a real treat of basket ball.

The game was played in two 20 minute halves, the score at the end of the first half was Saginaw 9, Grayling 8. Saginaw annexed 16 points in the second half and Grayling 4. The final score was Saginaw 25; Grayling 12.

Grayling-Frederic Junior High.

Those who came early enough to witness the preliminary game, between Grayling and Frederic junior high schools received their money's worth in that game alone. It was surprising to see the fine team work that these two kid teams put up. They showed a lot of pep and sailed into the plays with the vim of older players.

At the finish of the first half Frederic was ahead, the score being 6 to 5. In the 2nd half Grayling held the visitors down to one field basket and for themselves annexed five points. The game ended in a score of Grayling 10, Frederic 9. It was a hot fight up to the finish and the winning points were made in almost the final minute of the game.

Both teams are deserving credit for the fine playing they did.

Announcement

We take pleasure in announcing that the balance of our stock of five million dollars has been under-written by H. B. Dewstow & Co., investment bankers, of New York and Detroit.

This guarantees the early completion of our large and modern plant in Bay City—it also means that we will have ample working capital to operate the factory to full capacity.

We will now direct all energies to the perfecting of the organization which will handle the output of our big factory—2500 motor car tires and 5000 inner tubes daily (including the wonderful Wildman Self-Sealing Tube). Leading dealers everywhere are contracting to handle our product, and we confidently expect that The Wildman Rubber Company will be a "going concern," making money for its stockholders, from the moment the factory opens for work.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

GENUINE COMMON SENSE

Many Ford owners can afford to own and operate any car they may choose, but they prefer a Ford "because it is a Ford."

For "because it is a Ford" means dependability, ease of operation, efficiency—and it means sure, quick transportation.

And "because it is a Ford" means good taste, pride of ownership and genuine Common Sense.

The Ford Sedan, a closed car of distinction, beauty and convenience is the ideal all year 'round car, for pleasure or business—for the farm, town or city. It gives you all that any car can give at a much lower cost for operation and maintenance.

DAN O'LEARY CLAIMS PUGILISTS MUST WALK AND LIVE OUTDOORS

"Three of the greatest fighters I ever knew were pedestrians," said Dan O'Leary, famous boxer, who still is walking, though eighty years of age. "The men in question are John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons. Sullivan is dead, but the other two men are very much alive."

"Gibbons, I understand, has not paid out $10 for taxicabs in two years. He walks whenever he is not fighting. To look at Tom is to gaze on a picture of health. Any boxer who does not do plenty of walking and live outdoors will never amount to anything."

"Nearly all famous English fighters have been great walkers," continued Dan. "A British boxer who does not hit the road for a ten-mile walk when in training is looked upon as a quitter and a man who will not stand the gaff. Billy Gale, former long-distance walker of England, at times was a trainer of boxers in England, and made them all go the limit with him every morning on the road."

"Another thing that I would advise boxers to do is to train in the open," added Dan. "The other day in Chicago I was in a gymnasium where a noted fighter was at work, and the place was so filled with smoke that I had to take a walk to Milwaukee to get my lungs filled with fresh air."

CATCHER SAVES CLOSE GAME

Florida Backstop Grabs Ball in Old Drain and Completes Play by Clever Trick.

There are clever, resourceful catchers in Florida, take it from Bob Gilks, the Yankee scout. In a game way down in the everglades country, with three on bases and two out, one run needed to win in the ninth inning, the man at the bat pounded the ball straight down at the ground in front of the plate.

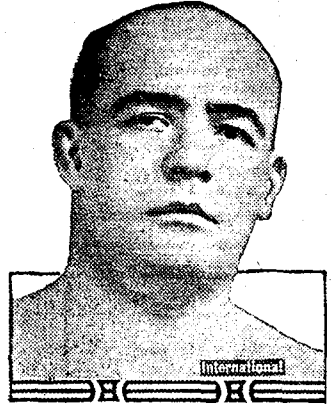

The sphere struck on a thin crust of earth over an old drain and crashed through and out a slit. All of the runners began to travel. The team in the field was up in the air, for no one could see the ball.

All except the catcher. He dived for the ball, stuck his arm down clear to his shoulder and grabbed the ball. Then, lying full length, he pushed his toe back and touched the plate just as the runner from third flashed across the plate, saving the game for the home team.

ZBYSZKO PLANS RETIREMENT

Champion Heavyweight Wrestler Will Give All Aspirants to Title a Chance.

Stanislaus Zbyszko, heavyweight wrestler, plans to retire within a year.

Stanislaus Zbyszko.

"I intend," he said, "to give all those worthy of a chance a crack at the championship as fast as matches can be arranged. Then I expect to quit."

Zbyszko is more than forty years old and has engaged in 940 matches.

Gleason After Raise

Contrary to the general belief, Kid Gleason has not yet signed a contract with the White Sox. Chicago wants Gleason, but the Kid wants more money than Comiskey has offered him.

Rigler a Gaffer

Charley Rigler, National league umpire, is a bug on the golf game. Rigler is perfecting his play, with the thought that he might become a golf professional when he decides to give up umpiring.

Guillemot Breaks Record

Josef Guillemot, the champion distance runner of France, broke the French record for 2,000 meters, covering the distance in 5 minutes 34.5 seconds. The former record was held by Arnaud.

Boone Petition Landis

It is said that at least twenty ball players who quit the majors for the outlaws, have petitioned Judge Landis for reinstatement.

AFRAID OF EARTHQUAKE

Years ago Ping Bodie came up to the big show from San Francisco. He had never heard thunder out in California, and one night in St. Louis one of the old-fashioned Missouri thunder storms broke. Ping was shooting pool in the basement of the hotel when the fierce growl of it boomed out.

Ping dropped his cue, and slid feet first under the table. To him that rumble meant an earthquake, and a pool table was an excellent protection against falling ceilings. The big leaguers never have forgotten that, and kidded Ping about it up to the day he left last company.

POOR TACKLING BIG FAULT IN FOOTBALL

Flaw Apparent in Almost Every Contest of Note.

Particularly Noticeable in Princeton-Yale Game When Yale's Captain Aldrich Was Permitted to Make First Touchdown.

Poor tackling has been a prevailing fault in almost every big game played in the East and the West. The experts have harped on the failure of the tacklers to bring down their men as in the old days.

In the Princeton-Yale game, three Princeton men had a chance to bring down Aldrich of Yale as he circled the Princeton end for the first touchdown of the game. Two of the Tiger players missed Aldrich entirely, while the third tackler allowed himself to be dragged over the goal line before bringing Aldrich down.

In the old days coaches had the players indulge in tackling practice every day. The tackling dummy was badly treated in the old days. It's different now with the new game. These are the days of the forward passes, shifts and deceptive plays. There is so much more for the player to learn that the coach spends much of the time instructing his players on attack and defense that formerly was devoted to tackling.

Percy Houghton, former coach of Harvard, briefly explains why tackling as an art has suffered. Here is the way he puts it: "When a coach has only a short time to prepare his line of battle, in order to meet the varied attack that he must face, he cannot give too much time to one subject. Tackling was once the big thing in football. It still plays a leading role, but has suffered because coaches can no longer give the necessary time to perfecting that feature of the game."

CAMERA WILL HELP SCOUTING

Asserted Better Line of Information Could Be Secured on Play of Future Opponent.

Football scouting some day will be done by means of a movie camera, is the prediction of F. H. Haskett, Ohio State university photographer, who has been a student of the game for years. Figuring the actual time the ball is in play at four periods of fifteen minutes each at about eleven minutes, Haskett estimates that a complete picture version of the game could be procured for about $135.

With the new movie camera similar in size and action to the better-known high-speed camera in use today, Haskett says a scout could get a much better line on the play of a future opponent by means of the film than by notes alone.

FEED THEM CURVES

"Any club that has a couple of good curve ball pitchers can make the New York American league team look cheap," says John McGraw. "My pitchers were instructed to feed them a steady diet of curve ball pitching. The Yankees didn't like it. Douglas was expected to use a spitball almost entirely, yet he rarely threw one. Curve ball pitching made the Yankees easy for us."

Rixey Signs With Reds. Pitcher Eppa Rixey, who won nineteen games of the Cincinnati Nationals last season, signed for next year.

Game Draws $210,000. Receipts for the football game dedicating the new Stanford stadium between California and Stanford November 19 were more than $210,000.

GORGEOUS WINTER WRAPS; IDEAS FOR REMODELING

WHEN the days begin to lengthen and the cold begins to strengthen, the luxurious wraps of midwinter reach their splendid climax. They are out of reach of most of us, but interesting to all of us, as interpretations of current styles. Here are two masterpieces, developed with no other thought than to do the utmost that can be done with rich materials and costly furs lavishly used. They are the latest vision of some manufacturer with an imagination quite unhampered, and leave us convinced that nothing better will ever follow them. Follow them we will—at a considerable distance as to expensiveness, it is likely—but

The mainstay of the wardrobe in practical dresses for next spring have already made their entry on fashion's stage. The new styles are now making their bow before audiences of merchants and buyers, to be either selected and placed in the spring display, or rejected and relegated to the forgotten company of the "left overs."

The new styles show no radical changes. Fashion is still devoted to the slim silhouette and more or less unbroken lines. The low, waistline is retained, but a bloused arrangement of the bodice appears in increasing numbers. These new dresses are of interest to the home dressmaker who likes to make over frocks she has on with fidelity to line and detail in less costly furs and fabrics.

The magnificent coat at the left of the picture is made entirely of dark mink skins. The designer has not forgotten that its important business in life is to keep its wearer warm no matter how frigid the weather, and has worked to this end—its richness is an incident. The sleeves are ample and gathered into cuffs made of a single skin and that snugly to the wrists. The high cape-collared is equal to enveloping the head upon occasion, but ordinarily is worn as pictured. The present styles have an element of beauty in their casual adjustment to the figure, and designers are making the most of it.

It is not often that such a fur finds itself in the company of a cloth wrap that can vie with it in beauty or richness—but it can happen. In the long mantle-like coat at the right hand in anticipation of spring, and therefore two of them are shown here. In their designing each of these presents advantages for the remodeling of last season's frocks.

A very attractive afternoon dress, at the right of the picture, shows a combination of black lace and satin. It will please nine out of ten women who find this elegant but unpretentious type of dress practical for nearly all afternoon affairs. If one possesses a satin dress its countenance may be wholly changed by making it over with lace in a copy of the model pictured. Or the owner of handsome but idle lace can find use for it in combination with new satin.

Either a suit or frock of wool can be converted into the smart all-day dress pictured. The straight-line coats that have been fashionable make the of the picture the same consummate management of the material in hand appears, as in the fur coat. This wrap of beige-colored duvetyne becomes the background for wonderful embroidery in silk and chenille, and employs emplacements of kolinsky fur in wide panels at the sides and in the muffler collar. Most women will look longingly at it, even in the presence of its rival; for it also has "that splendor dear to women."

Salmon Croquettes. Season one-half pound, one solid cupful, of cooked fish—canned salmon is excellent—with salt, lemon juice, paprika and mustard. Mix with thick white sauce made with one ounce of butter and two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch and one cupful of milk. Cool, shape, roll in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat hot enough to brown quickly. They should not stay in the fat more than two minutes.

The Mosque of Omar covers 80 acres.

Flower Trimmings. Flower trimmings are used on many of the new dance frocks. One in changeable rose taffeta has black velvet flowers attached singly around the belt and suspended from the waist at the end of narrow white ribbons that fall in varying lengths around the plain full skirt. It makes a novel and attractive trimming.

"Those Who Dance Must Pay The Fiddler"

There's a settlement in profit or loss, for nearly every indulgence.

Sometimes the pay day is long deferred, and in that case the settlement may bear compound interest.

Often a payment in ill health is required for the dance had with tea or coffee during earlier years. Sometimes the collection comes in sleeplessness, sometimes in headaches, sometimes in high blood pressure, or in nervous indigestion—sometimes in all these penalties.

Nerves won't always stand the whipping of tea and coffee's drug, caffeine.

If you've been dancing to tea or coffee's fiddling, why keep on till payment time comes? If you're beginning to pay, now, why not cancel the contract?

There's an easy and pleasant way to avoid tea and coffee's penalties, as thousands have found who have changed to Postum. It is a delight with any meal—rich, comforting and satisfying—and it never harms. Even the little children can have a breakfast cup of Postum, with no fear for what may happen to sensitive nerves.

Instead of paying penalties for your meal-time drink, let it pay benefits to you, by giving natural health a full chance—and begin the new arrangement today. Any grocer will sell you, or any good restaurant will serve you Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 30 minutes.

CRAMPS, PAINS AND BACKACHE

St. Louis Woman Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Louis, Mo.—"I was bothered with cramps and pains in my back and had to go to bed as I could not work. My mother and my whole family always took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for such troubles and they induced me to try it and it has helped me very much. I don't have cramps any more, and I can do my housework all through the month. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends for female troubles."—Mrs. DELLA SCHOLZ, 1412 Salisbury Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Just think for a moment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use for nearly fifty years. It is prepared from medicinal plants by the utmost pharmaceutical skill, and superior methods. The ingredients thus combined in the Compound correct the conditions which cause such annoying symptoms as had been troubling Mrs. Scholz. The Vegetable Compound induces a restorative influence of the most desirable character, correcting the trouble in a gentle but efficient manner. This is noted by the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms.

MOTHER! CLEAN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

Altered His Mind. "I say," roared the irate citizen, as he bounced into the office of the village weekly, "where's the editor?" "Want to see him personally?" queried the office boy. "Of course I do," answered the I. O. "I'm going to thrash him within an inch of his life. See?" "Oh, all right," answered the boy. "Just take a seat, please. There are three others ahead of you. If you watch you'll see 'em chucked through the window one by one. When the third comes down, you can go up." But the visitor decided to postpone his trip. Another Viewpoint. ## CHAPTER XX—Continued.

They had a happy half-hour at the table, Mrs. Brimstead being in better spirits since her husband had got back to his farming. Annabel, her form filling with the grace and charm of womanhood, was there and more comely than ever. They had been speaking of Jack Kelso's death. "I heard him say once that when he saw a beautiful young face it reminded him of noble singing and the odor of growing corn," said Samson. "I'd rather see the face," Joe remarked, whereupon they all laughed and the boy blushed to the roots of his blond hair. "He's become a man of good judgment," said Brimstead. Annabel's sister Jane, who had clung to the wagon in No Santa Claus Land, was a bright-eyed, merry-hearted girl of twelve. The boy Robert was a shy, good-looking lad a little older than Josiah.

"Well, what's the news?" Samson asked. "Nothin' has happened since we saw you but the fall of El Dorado," Brimstead answered.

"There was the robbery of the mail stage last summer a few miles north of here," said Mrs. Brimstead. "Every smith of the mail was stolen. I guess that's the reason we haven't had no letter from Vermont in a year."

"Maybe that's why we haven't heard from home," Samson echoed. "Why don't you leave Joe here while you're gone to Chicago?" Annabel asked.

"It would help his education to rattle around with Robert and the girls," said Brimstead.

"Would you like to stay?" Samson asked. "I wouldn't mind," said Josiah who, on the lonely prairie, had had few companions of his own age.

So it happened that Samson went on alone. Near the sycamore woods he came upon a gray-haired man lying by the roadside with a horse tethered near him. The stranger was sick with a fever. Samson got down from his horse.

"What can I do for you?" he asked. "The will of God," the stranger feebly answered. "I prayed for help and you have come. I am Peter Cartwright, the preacher. I was so sick and weak I had to get off my horse and lie down. If you had not come I think that I should have died here."

Samson gave him some of the medicine for chills and fever which he always carried in his pocket, and water from his canteen.

"Is there any house where I could find help and shelter for you?" he asked presently. "No, but I feel better—glory to God!" said the preacher. "If you can help me to the back of my horse I will try to ride on with you. There is to be a quarterly meeting ten miles up the road tonight. Nothing shall keep me from my duty. I may save a dozen souls from hell—who knows?"

Samson was astonished at the iron will and holy zeal of this iron-hearted, strong-minded, fighting preacher of the prairies of whom he had heard much. He lifted him and set him on the back of his horse.

"God blessed you with great strength," said the latter. "Are you a Christian?"

"I am." They rode on in silence. Presently Samson observed that the preacher was actually asleep and snoring in the saddle. They proceeded for an hour or more in this manner. When the horses were wallowing through a swale the preacher awoke.

"Glory be to God!" he shouted. "I am better. I shall be able to preach tonight. A little farther on is the cabin of Brother Cawkins. He has been terribly pecked up by a stiff-necked, rebellious wife. We'll stop there for a cup of tea and if she raises a rumpus you'll see me take her by the horns."

Mrs. Cawkins was a lean, sallow, stern-faced woman of some forty years with a face like bitter herbs; her husband a mild-mannered, shiftless man who, encouraged by Mr. Cartwright, had taken to riding through the upper counties as a preacher—a course of conduct of which his wife heartily disapproved. Solicited by her husband she silently made tea for the travelers. When it had been drunk the two preachers knelt in a corner of the room and Mr. Cartwright began to pray in a loud voice. Mrs. Cawkins shoved the table about and tipped over the chairs and dropped the candle in a counter demonstration. The famous circuit rider being in no way put out by this, she dashed a dipper of cold water on the head of her husband. The praying stopped. Mr. Cartwright rose from his knees and commanded her to desist. On her declaration that she would not he laid hold of the woman and forced her out of the door and closed and bolted it and resumed his praying.

Having recorded this remarkable incident in his diary, Samson writes: "Many of these ignorant people in the lonely prairie cabins are like children. Cartwright leads them on like a father and sometimes with the strong hand. If any of them deserve a spanking they get it. He and others like him have helped to keep the cabin people clean and going up hill instead of down. They have established schools and missions and scattered good books and comforted sorrows and kindled good desire in the hearts of the humble."

As they were leaving, Mr. Cawkins told them that the plague had broken out in the settlement on Honey creek, where the quarterly meeting was to be held, and that the people had been rapidly "dyin' off." Samson knew from this that the smallpox—a dreaded and terrible scourge of pioneer days—had come again.

"It's dangerous to go there," said Cawkins.

"Where is sorrow there is my proper place," Cartwright answered. "Those people need comfort and the help of God."

"I got a letter from a lady there," Cawkins went on. "As high as I can make out they need a minister. I can read print handy but writin' bothers me. You read it, brother."

Mr. Cartwright took the letter and read as follows:

"Dear Sir: Mr. Barman gave me your name. We need a minister to comfort the sick and help bury the dead. It is a good deed to ask of you but if you feel like taking the chance of coming here I am sure you could do a lot of good. We have doctors enough and it seems a pity that the church should fail these people when they need it most. If you have the courage to come you would win the gratitude of many people. For a month I have been taking care of the sick and up to now no harm has come to me.

"Yours respectfully,"

"BIM KELSO."

"A man's heart devised his way but the Lord directeth his steps," said Cartwright. "For three days I have felt that He was leading me."

"I begin to think that He has been leading me," Samson declared. "Bim Kelso is the person I seek."

"I would have gone but my wife took on so I couldn't get away," said Cawkins.

"I'll come back some day soon and you and I will pry the devil out of her with the crowbar of God's truth and mercy," Cartwright assured him as he and Samson took the road to the north.

On their way to the Honey creek settlement the iron-hearted minister told of swimming through flooded rivers, getting lost on the plains and suffering for food and water, of lying down to rest at night in wet clothes with no shelter but the woods, of hand-to-hand fights with rowdies who endeavored to sell drink or create a disturbance at his meetings. Such was the zeal for righteousness woven by many hands into the fabric of the West. A little before sundown they reached the settlement.

Samson asked a man in the road if he knew where they could find the nurse Bim Kelso.

"Do ye mean that angel of God in a white dress that takes keer of the sick?" the man asked.

"I guess that would be Bim," said Samson.

"She's over in yon' house," the other answered, pointing with his pipe to a cabin some twenty rods beyond them. "That's two children sick thar an' the mauney dead an' buried in the ground."

"Is the plague getting worse?" Cartwright asked.

"No, I reckon it's better. Nobody has come down since the day before yesterday. That's the doctor countin'." He kin tell ye."

A bearded man of middle age was approaching them in the saddle. "I am Peter Cartwright—the preacher sent of God to comfort the sick and bury the dead," said Samson's companion.

"We welcome you, but if you stop here you will have to stay until the epidemic is over."

"That I am prepared to do."

"Then I shall take you where you can find entertainment, such as it is."

"First, this man wishes to speak to Miss Kelso, the nurse," said Cartwright. "He is a friend of hers."

"You can see her but only at a distance," the doctor answered. "I must keep you at least twenty feet away from her. Come with me."

They proceeded to the stricken house. The doctor entered and presently Bim came out. Her eyes filled with tears and for a moment she could not speak.

"Why didn't you let me know of your troubles?" Samson asked.

"Early last summer I wrote a long letter to you," she answered.

"It didn't reach me." One day in June the stage was robbed of its mail down in Tazewell county. Your letter was probably on that stage."

came out here to get away from my troubles—perhaps to die. I didn't care."

"Harry is not dead," said Samson. Her right hand touched her forehead; her lips fell apart; her eyes took on a look of tragic earnestness. "Not dead!" she whispered. "He is alive and well."

Bim staggered toward him and fell to her knees and lay crumpled upon the ground, in the dusky twilight, shaking and choked with sobs, and with tears streaming from her eyes but she was almost as silent as the shadow of the coming night. She looked like one searching in the dust for something very precious. The strong heart of Samson was touched by the sorrowful look of her so that he could not speak.

Soon he was able to say in a low, croaking voice:

"In every letter he tells of his love for you. That article in the paper was a cruel mistake."

After a little silence Bim rose from the ground. She stood, for a moment, wiping her eyes. Her form straightened and was presently erect. Her soul resented the injustice she had suffered. There was a wonderful and touching dignity in her voice and manner when she asked: "Why didn't he write to me?"

"He must have written to you," said Samson, calmly, thoughtfully. She spoke as she stood looking off at the fading glow in the west:

"It is terrible how things can work together to break the heart and will of a woman. Write to Harry and tell him that he must not come to see me again. I have promised to marry another man."

"I hope it isn't Davis," said Samson.

"I don't like him. I don't think he's honest."

"But he has been wonderfully kind to us. Without his help we couldn't have lived. We couldn't even have given my father a decent burial."

"Has he been out here to see you?"

"No."

"And he won't come. That man knows how to keep out of danger. I don't believe you'll marry him."

"Why?"

"Because I intend to be a father to you and pay all your debts," said Samson.

The doctor called from the door of the cabin.

Bim said: "God bless you and Harry!" as she turned away to take up her task again.

That night both of them began, as they say, to put two and two together. While he rode on in the growing dusk the keen intellect of Samson saw a convincing sequence of circumstances—the theft of the mail sack, the failure of his letters to reach their destination, and the fact that Bim had accepted money from Davis in time of need. A strong suspicion of foul play grew upon him and he began to consider what he could do in the matter.

Having forded a creek he caught the glow of a light in the darkness, a little way up the road. It was the lighted window of a cabin, before whose door he stopped his horse and hallooed:

"I am a bearded and hungry traveler on my way to Chicago," he said to the man who presently greeted him from the open doorway.

"Have you come through Honey Creek settlement?" the latter asked.

"Left there about an hour ago."

"Sorry, mister, but I can't let you come into the house. If you'll move off a few feet I'll lay some grub on the choppin' block an' up the road about a half-mile you'll find a barn with some hay in it, where you and your horse can spend the night under cover."

Samson moved away and soon the man brought a package of food and laid it on the block and ran back to the door.

"I'll lay a piece of silver on the block," Samson called.

"Not a darned cent," the man answered. "I hate like pison to turn a feller away in the night, but we're awful skeered here with children in the house. Good-by. You can't miss the barn. It's close ag'in' the road."

Samson ate his luncheon in the darkness, as he rode, and presently came upon the barn and unsaddled again latched and fed his horse in one ear of it—the beast having drunk his fill at the creek they had lately forded—and lay down to rest for the night, with the saddle blanket beneath him and his coat for a cover. A wind from the north began to wall and whistle through the cracks in the barn and over its roof, bringing cold weather. Samson's feet and legs had been wet in the crossing, so that he found it difficult to keep warm. He crept to the side of his horse, which had laid down, and found a degree of comfort in the heat of the animal. But it was a bad night, at best.

"I've had many a long, hard night, but this is the worst of them," Samson thought.

There's many a bad night in the history of the pioneers, its shadows falling on lonely, ill-marked roads, cut by rivers, creeks and marshes and strung through unnumbered miles of wild country. Samson was up and off at daylight in a bitter wind and six inches of snow. It was a kind of work he would not have undertaken upon any call less commanding than that of friendship.

He reached Chicago at noon, having had nothing to eat that day. There was no such eager, noisy crowd in the streets as he had seen before. The fever of speculation had passed. But there were many people on the main thoroughfares, among whom were Europeans who had arrived the autumn before. They were changing but the marks of the yoke were still upon them. In Chicago were the vultures of the West and they were very much alive in spite of the panic.

Samson bought some new clothes and had a bath and a good dinner at the City hotel. Then he went to the office of Mr. Lionel Davis. There to his surprise he met his old acquaintance, Eli Fredenberg, who greeted him with great warmth and told of having settled in Chicago.

A well-dressed young man came out of an inner office. "I'd like to see Mr. Davis," said Samson. "Tell him that I've got some money that belongs to him and that I'm ready to deliver it."

WHERE HOTELS ARE UNKNOWN

Traveler in Mongolia Made Welcome In Any Tent, Conforming to Simple Rules of Etiquette.

Travelers on the steppes of Mongolia are welcome to stay in any tent in any village they encounter. Every Mongolian is hospitable itself, providing the traveler has judgment enough to conform to the simple rules of etiquette. Of course, he will have to lie down beside the lambs and calves of the household, just as do the members of the family.

From whatever side of a tent the traveler approaches he must be sure to ride up to it from the front. When he is within a short distance he must stop and shout "noho!" which means dog. This is a safety measure, because the dogs are wolf-like and fierce. The people hurry out to call off the dogs, and if he is on foot he keeps them back, as best he can, with a stick.

Once a traveler enters a tent he says "mondu," or greeting. As dogs do not attack inside a tent it is an insult to carry a stick inside. He sits at the left side of a fireplace, with his feet curled up under him. If he can't do this he sits with his feet stretched toward the door. Then he exchanges snuff boxes with the family. When he leaves, next morning, he bows and smiles, as the Mongols have no custom equivalent to hand-shaking and good-by.

Some Excellent Reasons Advanced Why Head of the House Should Know How to Prepare Food.

Cooking has been added to the curriculum of male students at Pennsylvania State college. Cooking is something that all men should know—something about.

Some men should know all about it. Particularly should married men have the necessary knowledge so that in the pinch they can escullap a pan of potatoes or stir up a mess of fluffy biscuits.

There is no telling when the good wife may be absent from home at meal time.

As time goes on the legitimate reasons for this are growing.

And what is more pleasing to the average wife than to return from the bridge party or the polling place, a trifle late, perhaps, and worried for fear that she'll not be able to have dinner on the dot—what is more pleasing than to be greeted at the door by the man of the house, all uniformed up in a long overall apron, a dab of flour on his beaming countenance, striving for dear life at a bowl of embryo drop biscuits?

And the teakettle steaming its heart out?

And the smell of burning beefsteak permeating the otherwise hopeful atmosphere?

Man should know how to cook!—St. Joseph Gazette.

Man Shoulders Not Level. To the majority of persons the statement that their shoulders are not of the same height will come as a surprise, but millions know that almost invariably the left shoulder is higher than the right.

If a baby's shoulders are measured it will be found that they are exactly even. That they do not remain so is blamed upon parents, who as a rule lead their young and growing children by the left hand.

This is a natural manner of leading the child, and it is held that from lumps of persons met in their walks, but the muscles and bones are thus continually raised and in the end drawn permanently out of position, although the change is so slight that it is not noticeable unless accurate measurements are taken.

Wrong Scattered by Light. Light itself is a great correction. A thousand wrongs and abuses that are grown in darkness disappear like evil and bats before the light of day—James A. Gardfeld.

Ballroom Dancing. The earliest form of ballroom dancing was the quadrille, started about 1810. This was followed by the tango, invented in 1830. The tango was adopted in 1835. The waltz, which came from Germany, in 1795, did not become popular as a ballroom dance till later. The two-step is an American invention.

The fewer friends a man has the more popular he is with himself.

Some fortunes remain unmade because they are too much trouble.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN WANTS TO KNOW.

(By Home Economics Department Michigan Agricultural College.)

Underweight and Overweight Children.

Both overweight and underweight children offer special nutritional problems. Both are abnormal, being subject to disease and to general retarded mental development. Mothers should study their children, decide upon individual condition, and then plan meals to conform to proper corrective diet.

The Christmas season with its accompaniment of holiday candies and highly seasoned foods; the New Year with its suggestion of new regimes and good resolutions—both, as our French neighbors say "give one a think."

The result of over indulgence in sweets and rich food is seldom so apparent as at this time of the year when, very likely, the child cannot get out of doors to work off the effects of over-eating. With the New Year why not resolve to put that child, or those children upon a steady diet combined with steady hours?

The supply of food should be generous in amount; if insufficient the body itself is "burned" to provide energy, and loss of weight results; if too much, the body refuses to function properly, more food being retained than is "burned up." In either case the situation is serious; retarded mental development being the most noticeable result. The underweight child is, in addition, open to the ravages of tuberculosis; the overweight child, to pneumonia and infantile paralysis.

Cut out the rich foods from the diet of the overweight child; add them, together with at least a quart of milk a day, to the diet of the underweight child; and for both insist upon regular meals and regular sleep. Give their bodies a chance and their brains will take the chance.

The striking difference between well-nourished and mal-nourished children will be shown graphically in the nutrition clinic which will be held at the Michigan Agricultural College during Farmers' Week this winter.

JERRY LAMOTHE PINCHED FOR BOOTLEGGING.

Officers Raid Home Tuesday Night.
Catch Owner Red Handed, Is Claim.

Jerry LaMothe was arrested and taken to jail Tuesday night on a charge of bootlegging, or for having in his possession moonshine whiskey.
Officers raided his home between 8 and 9 p. m. It is reported that the owner gave the officers a lively tussle and that it took three officers to get handcuffs onto him. Several quarts of whiskey are reported to have been smashed.

Jerry was taken to hotel de jail for safe keeping. Wednesday morning he appeared before Justice Kraus and waited examination and was bound over to the Circuit court for trial. He was released on $500 bail which was furnished by members of his family.

Officers are said to have been watching LaMothe for several weeks and consider him one of the most open prohibition violators in the community. His case will come up in next term of Circuit court, January 10th.

Some night during the middle of last week the warehouse of Sorenson Brothers was broken into and a quantity of canvas gloves, tobacco and gum belonging to Olaf Sorenson & Sons, and stored in this building, were stolen. The warehouse is located near the M. C. tracks and the thieves entered through a window on the southwest side of the building, by breaking the panes. Boxes of matches were also taken. They have no clue as to who did the deed but the proper authorities are working on the case and no doubt the guilty ones will be brought to justice. What seems to be a queer thing, if the thieves were young boys no doubt they would be taking those canvas gloves home.
Wouldn't it be the duty of the parents to find out where they got them and try and right the wrong they had done? If their children bring anything home that does not belong to them see that they return it, or find out where they got it. Upholding children in dishonesty brings to mind and instance where some children had stolen some flowers from the flower garden of one of our well known residences, and the owner of the flower garden went to the home of the children who had stolen the flowers, and the mother had placed the flowers in a vase on the table. She thought that was nothing to steal a mere flower. But here, that mother was teaching her children to be dishonest just by her action in this instance.
Some time ago the confectionery store of M. W. Colbath & Son was robbed by some young boys and because of so many requests coming in to be lenient with the boys the case is still pending. What will our younger generation come to if we are going to allow this sort of thing to go on. Len-

Money is alright in its place, but should the offender be let off without being punished in some way. If they get again and maybe it would be a more serious offense the next time and they might have to serve a jail or prison

I make a specialty of children cases, positively no glasses prescribed unless needed. Remember the date. Wed. Jan. 18, one day. A. S. Allard, O. D.

Miss Ruby Wilkinson and Mr. Alva Annis were united in marriage New Year's day. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Annis of Beaver Creek Township and the couple have many friends who wish them much happiness in their new venture.

Mrs. Alfred Bebb and little daughter are visiting her parents in Bay City.

In the list of injured in the D. U. R. interurban crash down near Orion last week Wednesday, appeared the name of Edward W. Creque, Jr., of Flint, who with his father spend their summers at their cabin on the main stream of the AuSable. The young man was cut about the head and face. The accident happened when a crowded D. U. R. interurban car with its brakes locked hit a curve near Orion and toppled over.

The heavy snow on the Walmer Jorgenson barn on Norway street, next to the Burke garage, caused part of the roof of the front part of that structure to fall in Wednesday evening. Much material in the room below was crushed and damaged, among which was a Ford truck. The damage, Mr. Jorgenson says, will amount to several hundred dollars. Workmen are busy today clearing up the wreckage.

If you are feeling all worn out, if you can't sleep or work with any satisfaction, you need Tanlac. A. M. Lewis, Druggist.

New silk dresses at Cooley & Redson's. Please call.

Mrs. Bert Ashenfelter and son Leece returned Wednesday from Detroit where they had been visiting the former's mother Mrs. Mary Leece.

Einer Rasmussen returned to Monroe Tuesday after spending the holidays with relatives. Mrs. Rasmussen will remain for a couple of weeks longer.

Get your costume ready for the big American Legion masquerade party to be given at the school gymnasium Thursday evening of next week, January 12. Your friends will all be there.

The entertainment committee of the Moose ladies were pleased with the fine turnout at their regular social meeting Wednesday afternoon. First, second and consolation prizes for peddle were won by Mrs. Harvey Wheeler, Mrs. Charles Sullivan and Mrs. Alonzo Collen, respectively.

Miss Elizabeth Alexander, who is making her home with her brother Attorney Geo. L. Alexander, received a couple of Hawaiian coconuts as a holiday gift from one of her former pupils in Honolulu. They were in their original husk which is of a fibrous nature, about an inch and a half thick and with a smooth outside. They came unwrapped and uncrated, and with the name marked on the outer skin. It required 76 cents in stamps for each. It is seldom that one has an opportunity to see coconuts in the husk, and these have created a lot of attention and interest.

Miss Alexander was a teacher in the Honolulu schools for several years. The sender of the gifts was a pupil of hers at the time, and at present is superintendent of one of the branches of the Y. W. C. A. in her native city. There has been a close friendship between the two ladies and a regular correspondence has been kept up all these many years.

Tanlac is the ideal strengthener and body builder for old folks, because it creates a healthy appetite for wholesome food and strengthens and invigorates the digestive organs. A. M. Lewis, Druggist.

Little Irene Clauson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johannes Clauson underwent an operation for an abscess on her neck at Mercy Hospital Saturday, and is getting along nicely now.

Roscommon officials have on hand a list of those who failed to pay their dog tax for the preceding year, and the list has been placed in the hands of the sheriff and prosecuting attorney to bring proceedings against each person who appears on the list. The law requires that such proceedings take place. The delinquents were sent letters calling their attention to same and if the tax was not paid before Jan. 1, 1922, warrants were to be issued for the arrest of the delinquents. Cheboygan has done likewise, in issuing warrants on those who have not paid their dog tax.

JUST A MINUTE.

Many will pass this by as they pass the church building by with their heads down. Read the ads, the social spasms, the jokes, the news liners, all, but when this comes, "O there is more of that church stuff." It is not allowable to use mustard gas to stop people so they will read but just wait a minute. We want to make some little statements:

1. The progressive and worth while people of every community go to church.

2. Find a churchless town up this way and you will find a town where no one cares to live.

3. Find the man who does not go to church on Sunday and you have found the man who does not shave, change his old clothes, or wake up all day. He is a stunner.

4. It is easy to criticize the M. E. Church of Grayling. Many are at it. But such people are not teaching classes in Sunday School, nor attending prayer meetings, nor helping in the choir, nor working in the Missionary Society, nor boasting anywhere. He who does not work should not find fault. Join the workers now.

5. Next Sunday every loyal citizen should be at church somewhere. The Michelson Memorial M. E. Church will be open and full of cheer next Sunday all day. Come.

A number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Behlke met at their home on Saturday evening for a Pot Luck supper and incidentally to watch the passing of the old year. The evening was spent playing Bridge and everyone present had a most enjoyable time. There is no sewing machine that equals the Singer. Come around and let me demonstrate them. Thomas Cassidy, Agent.

FRANCE BALKS ON SUBMARINE RATIO

ENVOYS DECLARE NATION MUST REMAIN FREE TO BUILD 300,000 TONNAGE.

BALFOUR MAKES OPEN CHARGE

Says Stand is Menace to Britain; Conference Dismisses Sub and Turns to Other Subjects.

Washington—Efforts to limit the naval strength of the powers in submarines and auxiliary warships came to an abrupt end Dec. 28 after they had drawn the French and British arms conference delegates into a plain-spoken exchange over the possibilities of a future war between France and the British Empire.

The French, acting under renewed instructions from their government, told the conference naval committee with an air of finality that France must remain free to build a submarine flotilla nearly three times as great as that she now possesses and to construct, in addition, cruisers, destroyers and other auxiliary craft up to a tonnage of 330,000.

To the proposal, the Americans, Japanese and Italians replied with expressions of surprise and regret, while the British charged openly that such a building program must be regarded as a menace to British shores.

Arthur J. Balfour added that he had no doubt, if the occasion arose, Great Britain would be equal to it, but only if she reserved complete freedom of action as to the construction of all types of auxiliaries which might be useful against under-water warfare.

Agreeing that further argument would be useless, the committee turned its attention to collateral subjects, including regulations for future use of the size and armament of individual auxiliary vessels, and details of the agreement already sealed in principle regarding capital ships.

For the American delegation, Ellihu Root proposed a joint declaration reaffirming the obligation of submarine commanders to warn merchant ships before attack, to refrain from sinking vessels whose crews and passengers could not first be placed in safety, and to conform in general to all the established practices of international law. In addition, Mr. Root also suggested a change in existing usage to prohibit attacks on merchant vessels altogether and to make submarine commanders who violate the regulation liable to trial as pirates.

General sympathy for the purposes of these proposals was expressed by the representatives of all the powers, but definite action was deferred. Should an agreement be reached, it is to be submitted to all civilized nations with an invitation for world-wide adherence.

FELICITATIONS PLEASE WILSON

Former President Deluged With Telegrams on 65th Birthday.

Washington—Former President Wilson was deluged with telegrams from all over the world on the occasion of the celebration of his 65th birthday at his home here Dec. 28.

It was said that the telegrams were of a congratulatory nature on the improvement in his health, and that the volume probably exceeded any like number of greetings ever received by Mr. Wilson. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Wilson went for an automobile ride, and in the evening had as guests for dinner, Miss Margaret Wilson, Mr. Wilson's daughter, and several other members of the family.

Several of the more intimate friends of Mr. Wilson called at his home in S street during the day to extend their greetings in person.

It was said that the former president was in excellent spirits and keenly enjoyed the messages of good will he received from friends throughout the world.

29 HURT IN CAR DERAILMENT

D. U. R. Interurban Topples When It Falls to Slow Up For Curve.

Orion, Mich.—Twenty-nine of the 55 passengers on a D. U. R. interurban, running between Detroit and Flint, were hurt, none of them fatally, it was stated by physicians, when the car was derailed a half mile south of this city, Dec. 28.

The car did not slacken speed when it reached Grant's crossing and it was hurled from the track into a telephone pole, snapping it short, the stub penetrating the right side and roof of the car.

Warm Reception for Prince.

Calcutta—The restraint of the "Hartal"—India's "Boycott" against the Prince of Wales—was utterly smashed at a pageant in honor of the British heir to the Imperial throne, when tens of thousands gave him an enthusiastic reception. The event was comparable, in its color and success, to the 1911 pageant with which the Prince's father was entertained. There was a brilliant display of fireworks in the evening and the entire city was illuminated.

Iron Ore Shipments Decrease.

Marquette—Shipments of iron ore from upper lake ports during the season which ended last month showed a decrease of 38,226,000 tons, or 61.89 per cent from the 1920 tonnage. In 1920, shipments from the Lake Superior district amounted to 58,527,226 tons, an average tonnage, but in 1921 the total was only 22,300,726 tons, the smallest in many years. Only in 1911, when the total movement was 22,000,000 tons, did tonnage fall anywhere near the low mark of this year.

GREAT FORTUNES DIVIDED BY MCCORMICK DIVORCE

HAROLD F. MCCORMICK

Chicago—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, America's most powerful financial genius, was granted a decree of divorce from Harold F. McCormick, multi-millionaire president of the International Harvester Co. by Judge Charles A. McDonald in superior court Dec. 28.

It was one of the speediest divorce cases on record, the proceedings lasting only 50 minutes.

Mrs. McCormick charged her husband with desertion.

The principals are two of the richest and best-known persons in America.

After the brief testimony, counsel for McCormick waived the privilege of cross-examination.

The decree signed by Judge McDonald bears no reference to the dowry rights of Mrs. McCormick.

"I know nothing of any settlement," said Judge. "Both parties are immensely wealthy and money does not enter into it, as far as I know."

REDUCE BONDS IN KIRBY CASE

Judges Reserves Decision Until Higher Court Reviews Case.

Adrian, Mich.—Mrs. Mattie Kirby, the Hudson law enforcement worker, who was convicted in the circuit court of killing through her neglect an infant born to her unmarried daughter, Alice, July 4, will not be sentenced until the supreme court has reviewed the case.

Meantime she will be released under a $3,000 bond to guarantee her appearance. This is a reduction of $2,000 from the amount of assurance under which she was held during the trial of her case.

When Mrs. Kirby appeared before Judge Hart in the circuit court Dec. 27, her attorneys immediately asked for the customary 20 days in which to move for a new trial and 60 days in which to prepare the record. Both requests were granted and the judge announced that "because of the nature of the case" and the "many points of law" which were involved he would reserve sentence to permit of a supreme court review upon exceptions.

NO MORE TRANSPORTATION TAX

Federal Levy On Freight, Express and Passenger Rates Stopped.

Lansing.—Transportation taxes were wiped out January 1 by the terms of the new revenue act signed recently by President Harding. The taxes discontinued are the three per cent tax on freight charges, eight per cent on passenger fares and Pullman tickets, one per cent on express shipments and the special stamp tax on parcel post. Telephone and telegraph taxes are unchanged.

The transportation tax has been turning into the national coffers about $300,000,000 annually, of which the farmers have paid not less than $105,000,000, according to the American Farm bureau.

HUSBAND IS SLAYER, WIFE SAYS

Tells Police Man Was Killed to Obtain $200 Booty.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—The story of Mrs. Elmer Matthews, cook with a Coopersville road gang, of an alleged confession by her husband that he broke a murder pact that he might obtain for himself the booty of $200 by doing the killing himself, has written into the Grand Rapids police annals one of the strangest of records.

The story has caused the arrest, in his home in Warrensburg, Mo., of Elmer Matthews, 27, charged with the killing. Police are also holding Edward Murphy, 23, and his wife, 29.

Wrecked Cars Given as Fuel.

St. Thomas, Ont.—The poor of this city received a very useful gift through intervention of Mayor Brinkman, who upon learning that the Michigan Central Railway company was planning to scrap 160 freight cars, promptly got in touch with the general superintendent and asked that the wood be given the needy. A wire came informing the mayor that the poor are welcome to the fuel. The city will provide teams for carting it to their homes.

Don't Oppose Sacramental Wine.

New York.—The Anti-Saloon League, through its board of trustees, has gone on record as not opposed to the use of sacramental wines in churches. Following a board meeting, State Supt. William H. ### "HOBOED" TO GET POINTERS

David McCallib, Texas Veteran, Makes "Blind Baggage" Trip to Aid Ex-Service Men.

Jobless and penniless, hundreds of ex-service men in the West are "riding the rods" from place to place in search of employment. While others talk about doing something for them, David McCallib, young war veteran of Dallas, Tex., made a long trip as a "hobo" to get first-hand information about the men to devise means of helping them that would be acceptable to all.

"I rode the blinds and side-door pullmans for 800 miles over the M. K. & T., Santa Fe and Texas and Pacific railroads," McCallib reported to the American Legion authorities of Texas handling the unemployment problem. "I noted three outstanding things in the six-day trip. First, the real, old-time hobo of the back door variety has almost disappeared. Second, there were a large number of young men who were too young to have entered the army. The majority of the men riding the rods were of this class. Third, there was a comparatively small number of ex-service men on the rods. They were noticeably untrained in the ways of hoboeing."

Monroe—Work on the Ford Flat Rock dam, where a new electric power house will be built, is progressing rapidly. Contractors are blasting through five feet of solid rock to make a foundation.

Muskegon—Charles Cribley, Ravena farmer, was intoxicated and did not want to go home to his wife and children. He went to the home of a neighbor and the next morning he was found dead. Moonshine is believed to have caused his death.

Port Huron—The University of Michigan club of St. Clair county, at a banquet in Marysville made plans to entertain President Marion L. Burton of the University of Michigan here next April, when he will attend the state conference of Parent-Teachers' associations.

Port Huron—Canadian officers deported Frank Blunden, also known as Frank Neal, from Brantford, Ont., to Windsor, customs officers sending him to Detroit. Blunden was acquitted of stealing $20,000 worth of liquor from the residence of Customs Collector J. S. Spence.

Muskegon—Owners of bus lines voted off by the city at a special election, plan to continue operations, giving so-called free rides. City Attorney Farmer announces he will take court action to force the buses to discontinue. The people voted 4 to 3 against the buses.

Monroe—Many shanties are being hauled to Boile's beach on Lake Erie, two miles south of here, for the fishing season. It is planned this winter to give a number of ice boat regattas along this lake shore. W. C. Sterling is the commodore of the La Plaisance Bay-Lake Yacht club.

Lansing—Dr. R. M. Olin, state health commissioner, has been authorized by the state administrative board to appoint a consulting staff of four surgeons who will work with him in an effort to heal the ailments of some six or seven hundred child inmates of state institutions.

Saginaw—Frank Coshitt, janitor at the city hall, had a narrow escape from probable death when he was placing the flag in position and slipped on the icy roof. He would have fallen 125 ft. but for the eavesdropper which caught him. Policemen climbed the roof and rescued him with a rope.

Grand Rapids—Because Judge Orien S. Cross, of the Allegan circuit court, is president of the First National bank of that city, the case of the bank and other creditors of the F. D. Travis company has been transferred to the Kent circuit court. Judge John S. McDonald has named Frank D. Blake, of this city, receiver.

Kalamazoo—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the $13,000 home of George Irvine at Gull Lake, a few hours after workmen had completed it. A hard coal fire had been banked in the furnace. The building was one of the finest on the famous resort lake, and was situated on a high bluff overlooking the water near the Gull Lake Country club. The loss was covered by insurance.

BIG FINANCIAL DEAL.

H. B. Dewstow & Co., Investment Bankers, New York and Detroit, Underwrite $5,000,000 Wildman Rubber Company Stock.

The Wildman Rubber Company of Bay City announces the underwriting of the balance of its stock of five million dollars by the well-known firm H. B. Dewstow & Co., investment bankers, of New York and Detroit.

Mr. Dewstow, with several members of his organization, has spent some time in Bay City, going over the company's property, and after a careful survey of conditions, management and prospects and considering the advantages this company will enjoy over other cities in the manufacture of tires, tubes, and rubber goods, expressed himself as being decidedly confident that every condition exists for a successful and profitable future for the Wildman interest.

At Bay City, the Wildman Rubber Company has the advantage of an unlimited supply of free water for the minimum expense of pumping; it has very low cost of electric power, with ideal labor conditions and unexcelled production facilities, together with a location near the very heart of the world's greatest automobile center, and still far enough away to be unaffected by the crowded labor conditions of that section. With all these conditions ideally fit for the production of high grade rubber goods, the Wildman Company will, in his opinion, be able to compete successfully with the older companies in this line of production.

"It is a well known fact," says Mr. Dewstow, "that some of the older and successful companies, producing tires, tubes and other rubber goods, are in a position of realizing that with the more modern machinery, they can produce a higher quality of product at a lower expense, but the tremendous loss entailed in junking the costly machinery now used—though almost obsolete—for the more modern and efficient machinery is a step they hesitate to take. The Wildman Rubber company will enjoy this saving and can assure better quality production without assuming the loss necessary to other companies, and therefore will get away to a flying start which will undoubtedly out-distance many competitors."

Coupled with the foregoing conditions, is the fact that the Wildman Rubber Company, in the opinion of Mr. Dewstow, today possesses patents on the only real Self-Sealing Inner Tube in the world. A tube that has been the dream of the tire industry from its beginning. A tube that will contain air, after being pierced many hundreds of times by nails and other sharp instruments of tire torture. A tube that has the resiliency of any other tube on the market, and yet retains the air despite the puncture, and reduces blow-outs to the minimum.

"The first thought in my mind," said Mr. Dewstow, "upon viewing this tube and its wonderful possibilities, was: when can I get these tubes as equipment on my own car? That thought occurring to me was an argument that could not be gainsaid, because I realized that if I was sold on this tube upon first seeing it, the same would be the case with a tremendous percentage of the automobile owners of the country, which means one of the fundamentals of successful business, namely: DEMAND."

The underwriting of the Wildman Company's stock means the early completion of its plant in Bay City; it also means that the company will have ample working capital to operate the plant at full capacity.

The officers of the Wildman Rubber Company are: President, W. W. Wildman—formerly president and general manager of the Portage Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio; Vice-President, C. A. Brownell—formerly advertising and publicity director of the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, Michigan; Attorney, H. P. Orr, formerly business manager of the Bay City Tribune, and secretary of the Bay City Board of Commerce; Treasurer, C. R. Twynham, formerly associated with the B. F. Goodrich Co., The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and the Portage Rubber Company, all of Akron, Ohio; Attorney, H. P. Orr, attorney for the Michigan Finance Corporation, Director of the Michigan Employer's Casualty Company.

C. A. Brownell, vice-president of The Wildman Rubber Company who for ten years was advertising and publicity director of the Ford Motor Company said: now that the financing of our company is assured the officers are going to devote their time to establishing agencies for our tires and tubes. We have already secured hundreds of the leading dealers of the United States to handle our products exclusively and the list is growing very rapidly. I have every reason to believe that when our plant begins operations we shall have sold our entire output and will be obliged to make plans for enlargement. There is no limit to this business and I shall be very disappointed if ours is not one of the five largest tire plants in the world within five years. The first year I was associated with the Ford Motor Company, (the eighth year of its existence), the sales amounted to about $15,000,000. I saw the business grow to $750,000,000 per annum in 10 years. It is my belief that the sales of The Wildman Rubber Company in its second year will be at least $15,000,000 or as much as the Ford Company could show after eight years. We have the management, the product, the sales organization and the finances which are necessary to every successful industry.—Contributed.

FARM BUREAU NOTES.

farm and outfit, and moved away taking ten thousand dollars cash, more money than any other farmer in the county could show for the same number of years.

He did freestone farming.

He realized that he who foresees conquers.

These are great days for planning, for freestone farming.

By employing them well we can make some money.

It is one thing to sit by the fire in slothful content, and quite another thing to sit there, out of the storm, keen, alert, bent over paper, with pencil in hand, planning better buildings of correct structure and proportions; to draw a map of all the fields, and plan just what rotation of crops shall be raised on each for the next three to six years; to think out a way to get a purebred bull, or heifer, or cow; to think out labor saving devices for both house and barn; to plan to go to Farmer's Week at our Agricultural College; to plan for the silo; to plan a good farm workshop out of old material; to plan better things for neighborhood school; to plan a system of accounts; to plan more friendly relations with neighbors, to plan to be a master farmer.

Great days, these, for planning. If it is true that "the mill will never grind with the water that is past," it is also true that the farmer who does not plan, amply now will fail to accomplish what he ought next summer.

"Live" Ones and "Dead" Ones.

Two kinds of men live together on earth.

"Live" ones and "dead" ones, no matter what birth.

"Live" ones have faith, backed by courage that grows.

A "dead" one sees just to the end of his nose.

A "live" one's a man who won't stay on a shelf.

He hustles for others as well as himself.

But a "dead" one, however, is content to stay dead.

Dead in his heart, dead in his head, dead in his pocketbook, dead in his pride, dead as the dearest old thing that has died.

A dead load to himself and a load to his brothers.

Who must carry the "dead" for the good of all others.

Which leads me to say to all "dead" making strife.

Get into the "game" and come back to life.

IS HERMIT 33 YEARS

Man Visits City for First Time and Sees First Woman.

Swift Change Comes and He Immediately Sheds His Whiskers and Buys Store Clothes.

Omaha.—Tracy Gillis, older than Brigham Young when he took his third wife, has just let his eyes first see a woman. He also has had his first remembered view of a railroad train, a street car, a daily newspaper and a fiction magazine.

Upon seeing a woman for the first time, Gillis visited a barber shop and had his long hair cut and his face shaved.

Gillis is thirty-three years old. He was born in Chicago. His mother was an actress and his father a disciple of Moody and Sankey. But for a third of a century father and son, their Bible open to the chapter which tells of John the Baptist dwelling in the wilderness, have lived alone on a western Nebraska ranch 40 miles from railroad, with no stranger stopping within its fence posts.

George Willis, the father, died recently, two years short of the four-score and ten which he believed that had been promised to him. Tracy, the son, buried the body on the ranch and went on with his farm work. Today he came to Omaha on his pioneer journey with a load of cattle.

According to the young man's tale, the older Gillis trafficked, with his neighboring farmers only on their property and never on his own, for fear his son's ears should pick up hints of civilization. The father fled to the West with his son to save him from the dancing, singing actresses in Chicago's old Haymarket theater. "A devil lurks on every city street corner, father taught me," Tracy Gillis said today. "He told me the sad story of my mother and warned me to avoid all sinful men."

With the money from the sale of his cattle Gillis changed his home made garments for a suit of store clothes. He also bought a safety razor, a tube of tooth paste and two silk neckties. He is willing to admit that one glimpse of the city has demoralized him. In his plans for the future, which include continued residence on his secluded farm, he mentions a wife and a course in agriculture.

MILLIONS SPENT IN VIENNA

Money So Plentiful in Austria Americans Are Outbid for Objects d'Art.

Vienna, Austria.—The astounding amount of ready money circulating in Austria was illustrated by the recently concluded sale of the rare furnishings of Klessheim palace, one of the residences of the Archduke Ludwig Victor. It netted many million crowns and the newspapers say the purchasers were virtually all newly rich Viennese.

Many professional collectors and buyers from France, Great Britain and the United States came here for the sale but declared they could not compete with native bidders, who ran prices up into millions as nonchalantly as if bidding in hundreds. Dollars, pounds and francs, they said, were out of the running. Several rare Gobelin's brought from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 crowns each.

The Vienna Derby just run was another illustration of the money plente. About 20,000 persons attended, and the receipts of the betting machines alone was 4,500,000 crowns.

BLAZING CROW FIRES FIELD

Bird Killed by a Live Wire Falls Into Hay Causing Loss of Several Hundred Dollars.

Rochester, N. Y.—A crow alighted on a heavily charged electric wire of the Niagara Power company and was instantly killed, falling a blazing mass into a field of uncut hay belonging to Hobart Stahl, near Spencerport, eight miles from here.

The field caught fire, causing a loss of several hundred dollars, and for a time threatened adjoining wheat fields whose uncut crops are estimated to be worth several thousands.

The Spencerport Chemical company made the three-mile run to the Stahl place and prevented further damage.

Meteor Falls in Tennessee.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—A meteor weighing between 500 and 600 pounds fell near here. The meteor made a swishing noise that was heard several blocks. It buried itself in the ground.

Aged Women Voters

Posted; Riot Followed

It was only 90 in the shade when the assessors of North Brookfield, Mass., posted the list of 900 female voters in the town, but it was estimated to be 120 in the assessors' office next day when it became known each name was followed by the age of the voter. Not satisfied with storming the assessors' office, many of the women attacked the lists with crayons, and some of the lists were torn off during the rioting. The list was accepted as authority for settling many long-standing arguments as to age.

CONSTIPATION.

Constipation of the bowels is a stoppage of the sewerage system that removes waste matter from the body. It is as necessary that your bowels move regularly once each day, to carry off this waste, as it is that the waste pipes of your home be kept open and carry off the waste from the house. If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed.

WORTH CONSIDERING.

The question is not so much how you contract a cold, but how to get rid of it with the least loss of time and inconvenience. If you will consider the experience of others under similar circumstances, who have been most successful in checking their colds, in their beginning, you will secure a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough remedy without delay, and use it faithfully. There are many families who have used this preparation successfully for years and hold it in high esteem. It is excellent.
